

ONE LINK. TWO TIMERS. ONE WINNER.

Studying alone is easy to quit. This isn't.

Watch your friend's focus climb in real time — and see the dot turn red the instant they leave their tab.

Send a link. Both timers start the same second and end the same second, and nobody signs up for anything. They see your numbers too.

NUDGE

"They've been away four minutes."

↪ One tap flashes their screen and chimes. Use it the moment you see them drift.

When both of you finish, the duel settles on focus score and the result goes into a permanent head-to-head record. A rematch is one button away.

• Live accountability

Their focused time, time away, tab leaves and distraction count, updating while you work. The dot goes red the second they leave.

• No account, either side

The invite link carries the room and the start time. No sign-up, no server, nothing to install — for you or for them.

• Session Autopsy

Both of you get the truth at the end: planned versus actual, tab leaves, time lost, and a focus score out of 100.

• Hands-free

Say "start 45 minutes" and it starts. 22 commands, none of them needing a keyboard.

No account — No sign-up, no email. Open the link and it works.

No server — Your data never leaves your computer. One button erases everything.

No install — It's a web page. Free, instant, nothing to download.
